Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Advisor is responsible for monitoring investment securities for each asset class.

The main sources of information used to analyze securities are Portfolio X-Ray® by Morningstar. Portfolio X-Ray is a sophisticated analytical tool that allows you to dissect your portfolio and gain a clear view of your holdings.

Portfolio X-Ray allows you to evaluate your overall asset allocation and sector weightings as well as uncover concentrated positions, view the stock holdings behind your mutual funds, measure performance against benchmarks and industry indexes, and stay up to date on the latest news and corporate actions relating to your holdings. There are no additional costs to clients for use of this service.

Investment Strategies

Advisor bases its primary investment strategy on the Rapid Retire program's retirement date

Describe Investment Strategy used: The strategy used is based on a combination of the flooring technique and bucket strategy. Rapid Retire consist of three components. Cash Flow Management – Cash Reserve Systems – Income Generation. Each individual client receives a risk assessment and goals evaluation.

Our investments included but are not limited to stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and REITS. Risks are reduced using the fiduciary approach to investing as part of the Rapid Retire® Program.

Flooring Technique

Flooring is classifying retirement expenses as essential or discretionary. Low-risk investments or annuity guarantees are selected to fund essential expenses. A mix of medium- and high-risk investments is selected to fund discretionary expenses. Income is drawn from the respective pools to cover essential and discretionary expenses. By annuitizing a portion of the portfolio to pay for everyday expenses, a fixed income is created to simulate a defined-benefit pension plan.

Bucket Strategy

The Bucket Strategy consists of setting up separate pools of investments with lowest-risk investments in the near-term segment, somewhat higher-risk investments in the next segment, and the riskiest portfolio (highest reward) in the longest-term segment. Income is then drawn down from one segment at a time, and when assets from one segment are depleted, assets from the second segment are used for income.

Types of Risk

- Market-related events can affect all financial and/or securities industries. In these occurrences, often based on data with global implications, many companies, regardless of its size, structure, and financial condition, can experience swings in market valuation and securities pricing.
- Interest-rate changes may cause a swing in security pricing and market valuations. For example, when bond yields increase, increase rates typically decrease. As such, this may make investors less incentivized, or similarly in inverse bond yield conditions, to hold onto certain security types.
- Inflation levels, due to an increase in the prices of goods and services, may cause swings in certain securities pricing.
- Deflation levels, due to a decrease in the prices of goods and services, may cause swings in certain securities pricing.
- Currency fluctuations, due to global micro or macro-economic conditions, can bring added risk to an underlying security. Certain security types may have more or less risk given its ties to a certain currency, especially if a company's operations, taxes or profit margins are dependent on exchange rates. This level of risk is largely due to the fact that many currencies are pegged against other world currencies.
- Credit/Debt changes, due to a company/securities exposure to debt or other related defaults, can cause a swing in equity/market valuations. The ability of a debtholder to pay a debt may be factored into the pricing on the security/investments (e.g., bond, credit based mutual funds). In addition, the amount of credit available to an underlying company, may factor into its ability to grow, and thus could affect securities/market valuation and earnings.
- Commodity risk may occur if/when a security pricing or company is prone to seasonal or cyclical market conditions associated with a certain commodity. For example, a security with that purchases steel, rubber, or other commodities for its underlying companies, may pose an added risk to an investment position.
- Industry Specific issues may occur if/when a security or company is prone to seasonal or cyclical market dynamics associated with a certain industry. For example, a company with ties to the retail space may have swings associated with earnings season or a holiday projection.
- Equity/Liquidity issues may arise if an investment manager experiences difficulty when attempting to exit a position due to a security within a limited market of buyers and sellers (e.g., illiquid securities, secondary market securities, low float stocks).
- Management level risks can occur based on the performance of management. For example, financial mistakes due to management decisions or frequent changes senior level staff (e.g., CEO exits due to improprieties or internal strife) can cause swings in securities/market valuations.
- Premium Risk is associated the minimum amount of money by which the expected return on a risky asset must exceed the known return on a risk-free asset in order to induce an individual to hold the risky asset rather than the risk-free asset.

Security/Products Types of Risk

- Mutual Fund and Exchange Traded Fund (“ETF”) risks may be associated with the Fund’s NAV/market price, trading price, yield, costs, and ability to meet its investment objectives.
- Real Estate Investment Trusts (“REITs”) risks may be associated with changes in real estate prices, credit markets, interest rates, and overall market condition as mentioned above.

Risk associated with Rapid Retire Product

- Rapid Retire consist of three components. Cash Flow Management - Cash Reserve Systems - Income Generation. Each indivual client receives a risk assessment and goals valuation. The risks are mitigated through a balance of short-term, intermediate, & long-term investments.

Disclosure

There are circumstances where employees invest in the same securities as clients. In those circumstances, employees could benefit from the client's market activity in the security or securities. However, employee trading is continually monitored under the Code of Ethics to detect and prevent employees from trading based on client activity, and to reasonably prevent conflicts of interest between BrightTree Wealth and its clients.

BrightTree Wealth's' clients or prospective clients may request a copy of the firm's Code of Ethics by contacting BrightTree Financial.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

BrightTree Wealth participates in the advisor services programs of Aspire Retirement Services, Goldman Sachs Institutional, and Charles Schwab.

About Schwab: Schwab Advisor Services serves independent investment advisors and includes the custody, trading and support services of Schwab.

About Aspire: Aspire provides smart retirement solutions for advisors that provide access to complete retirement account management including investment selection, on-demand plan data, reports and communications with all stakeholders.

Factors Used to Select Broker-Dealer Custodians

We may recommend that our portfolio management clients use the custodial and brokerage services of Goldman Sachs, Schwab, and Aspire all SEC-Registered broker-dealers and FINRA and SIPC member firms.

Factors in recommending brokers

In recommending our brokerages, we have taken into account the firm's ability to provide professional services, our experience with Goldman Sachs, their reputation, their quality of execution services, and the cost of such services.

Among other factors, as part of the standard packages of services available to all advisers and their clients who use Goldman Sachs as a custodian, offers a unique "window trading" methodology for executing orders, a model manager exchange; advisory fee billing services; online access to the brokerages platform to enter orders, view account information and use tax management functionality; and performance reports. Our firm conducts periodic assessments of custodians involving a review of the range and quality of services, reasonableness of fees, among other items, in comparison to industry peers. While we recommend that you use one of our recommended brokerages, it is your decision whether to do so. You open your account directly with our recommended brokerages by entering into an account agreement. We do not open a Goldman Sachs account for you, although we will assist you in doing so.

Research and Other Soft Dollar Benefits

The commissions and/or transaction fees charged by our recommended brokerages may be higher or lower than those charged by other custodians. Clients engaging for portfolio management services authorize the Advisor to determine the securities to be bought and sold, including the number of shares and/or dollar value.

We do not receive any soft dollar benefits.

The firm did not direct any client transactions or offer any products/services in the previous fiscal year.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

The commissions and/or transaction fees charged by Goldman Sachs may be higher or lower than those charged by other custodians.

We do not receive any client referrals from a broker-dealer and/or third parties.

Therefore, we do not have any incentives to select or recommend a broker-dealer based on our interest in receiving client referrals, rather than on our clients' interest in receiving most favorable execution.

Please review our summary of "How we handle potential conflicts of interest in our summary provided in Item 4 and Item 11 of our ADV. The firm did not direct any client transactions in the previous fiscal year.

Directed Brokerage

Client assets must be held at a qualified custodian which is generally a broker-dealer or bank.

BrightTree Wealth will recommend client assets to be held at our recommended brokerages. All brokerages are unique in that they offer trading in fractional shares.

Our clients should understand that, that by directing our clients to use brokerage services provided by Folio, we may be unable to achieve most favorable execution of client transactions, and that this practice may cost our clients more money.

We do not require our clients to open a brokerage account with our recommended brokerages and have no economic relationship nor any other conflict of interests to disclose with our recommended brokerages.

Our clients may direct its accounts to another brokerage but may pay higher brokerage commissions because we may not be able to aggregate orders to reduce transaction costs, and ultimately, they may receive less favorable prices.

Aggregating Securities Transactions

Our firm does not aggregate purchases and sales for various client accounts. However, orders are aggregated by Folio as part of its patented "Window Trade" process. Instead of being executed immediately, Folio Window orders are processed one or more times per day and executed generally around 11 a.m. ET and 2 p.m. ET. In the Window Trade process, Folio aggregates orders designated for trading in the Window based on the ticker symbol of each security and whether it is a buy or sell order. An aggregated order may include any combination of orders from your accounts, other customer accounts, and Folio's firm account. Folio generally routes aggregated orders to a market maker for execution or to a mutual fund company for fulfillment. Folio may also execute Window orders entirely by using its own inventory of securities. All Folio customers receive the same execution price for any given Window trade.
